SCRUTINY OF C.I.A. URGED IN SENATE

McCarthy and Young Seek
Greater Control of Agency

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (UPI)—Two proposals designed to subject the Central Intelligence Agency to closer Congressional scrutiny were offered today in the Senate.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, Democrat of Minnesota, called for the creation of a special Senate foreign relations subcommittee to make a "full and complete study" of the effects of C.I.A. operations on United States foreign relations.

Senator Stephen M. Young, Democrat of Ohio, introduced a proposal that would establish a joint Senate-House committee, on a permanent basis, to oversee C.I.A. operations.

Both Senators, in floor statements accompanying their proposals, maintained that the C.I.A. had been making policy as well as carrying it out. Both criticized the current situation in which a special subcommittee drawn from Appropriations and Armed Services Committees, informally keeps a watch on C.I.A. operations.

"Wrapped in its cloak of secrecy, the C.I.A. has, in effect, been making foreign policy," Senator Young said, adding, "In so doing, it has assumed responsibilities which were heretofore solely those of the President and Congress."

"The C.I.A. has gradually taken on the character of an invisible government, answerable only to itself," he continued.

Senator McCarthy commented that all Federal agencies—except the C.I.A.—were subject to periodic Congressional review of their functions and effectiveness, usually on an annual basis.

"However, in the nearly 20 years the Central Intelligence Agency has been functioning, there has been no formal review of its activities by members of Congress," Mr. McCarthy said.

"Since there has been no formal review, it has not been possible to determine whether a valid basis exists for criticism of the agency, or to prevent what appear to be distortions of policy or to dispel rumors surrounding the activities of the C.I.A." Senator McCarthy said.

Red China Said to Declare
Coast Areas Military Zones

Bonn Says It Won
Military Aid to

HONG KONG, Jan. 24 (AP)

Chinese border-crossers reported today that Communist China had declared its five coastal provinces military zones and put the area under partial military control.

Western sources said they had no confirmation of the reports, but said such a declaration would be in line with Peking's statements that China was about to be attacked by United States forces.

The five provinces form a 1,800-mile crescent extending north from the border of North Vietnam to an area across the Yellow Sea from the southern tip of Korea. Included are Kwangsi, bordering North Vietnam; Kwantung, north of Hong Kong; Fukien, opposite Taiwan; Chekiang and Liangsu.

BONN, Jan. 24 spokesman for Chancellor Erhard said that West Germany would not send military personnel to Vietnam. Karl-Günther von West German press reporters the Government leaving no stone unturned, in its efforts to help. It is impossible to say exactly what kind of aid it will be given, but it is mainly to support German personnel.

In addition to the aid, West Germany has sent a hospital ship. Hesse said it would be to any injured or wounded personnel, but that it was mainly to support Vietnamese.

Cairo Aide Sees U. S. Envoy
And Then North Vietnamese

Special to The New York Times

CAIRO, Jan. 24.—The United States Ambassador, Lucius D. Battle, met briefly today with Hassan Zayyat, Under Secretary of the Foreign Ministry, at the Ambassador's request. Later Mr. Zayyat called in the North Vietnamese Ambassador, Nguyen Xuan, the Middle East News Agency reported.

Cairo, and specifically Mr. Zayyat, has acted as a go-between for Washington and Hanoi since the United States made a proposal that the United Arab Republic act as protecting power for American military prisoners in North Vietnam.

That request was relayed to Hanoi early this month and about a week later the State Department disclosed that North Vietnam had replied through Cairo that such an arrangement was not acceptable.
